

Earth First! Action Update

Issue 68 May 2000

"To me, Spring is a movement, a mighty surging upward. It isn't coaxed from above, but moved from below." Richardson Wright

IMF and World Bank Protests

On 16th April finance ministers and central bankers from 25 countries, as well as ministers from the International Monetary Fund (IMF), World Bank and WTO and other members of the world economic elite went to Washington DC, USA. The IMF and World Bank sponsored Structural Adjustment Programmes destroy local economies, ravage the environment, wipe out jobs, cause famine, and enrich a corrupt corporate elite. These institutions impose 'free market' policies on every country on the planet putting profit and economic growth above all else.

The Washington DC protests against the International Monetary Fund/World Bank spring meetings were billed as Seattle II. In the week before the Washington police used intimidation tactics - heavy police presence, circling helicopters, arresting 600 people at an anti-Gap demonstration, motorbike charging a critical mass bike ride, closing down the direct action convergence centre for 'fire violations' and confiscating bikes, puppets etc. Authorities were embarrassed when the 'incendiary devices' they confiscated were identified as milk jugs and other items from the recycling bin!

On 16th April, 20-30,000 protestors took part in the rally, protest and blockade in the 60-80 blocks surrounding the IMF and World Bank Buildings. Police barricaded two blocks from the target, closing down the city, and many delegates couldn't get through. The next day was more serious. Groups held street parties and blockades at key intersections. As the World Bank's Development Committee met inside a 100 block exclusion zone, a column of protesters managed to penetrate the perimeter. Hundreds were arrested after voluntarily crossing the police line. About 100 people held a vigil outside the prison, in solidarity with those inside, and will stay until the last people in custody are released.

The Monthly Round up of Ecological, and Other, Direct Action from Around Britain

Earth First! is not a cohesive group or campaign, but a convenient banner for people who share similar principles to work under. The general principles behind the name are non-hierarchical organisation and the use of direct action to confront, stop and eventually reverse the forces that are responsible for the destruction of the Earth and its inhabitants.

Mayday 2000

Mayday 2000 is a global day of action and carnival against capitalism. Mayday is red for international workers day, green for Beltane - the ancient fire and fertility festival that signals transformation and rebirth, and black for the anarchists executed for their part in strikes on Mayday 1886. Mayday is a time when red, green and black converge - a catalyst for hope and possibility... Mayday is our day - a day to celebrate the reality of our desires...

Initiative Against Economic Globalization - Prague 2000

Some 20,000 representatives of global capital (world bankers, economists and financiers) are, expected to come to Prague in September to attend the 55th annual summit of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank Group. This prestigious meeting is the first of its kind in the Central and Eastern Europe and will be of a great importance. Various activities are planned including non-violent demonstrations, info campaigns, and a Festival of Art and Resistance.

If you want to know more about the world wide resistance to the corporate takeover of the world contact Peoples Global Action (see contacts page).

The EF! AU is written by activists as a networking tool for activists. A different collective takes on its editorship for a year at a time, in line with EF!'s non-hierarchical principles. If you have done an action, set up a new group, or want to tell people about a campaign, then send us an article (maximum 150 words). It doesn't matter if it seems small to you; stories of 3 people sitting in the road are sometimes the most inspiring especially to people who aren't part of a large group. The feature pages are also available for longer articles which will provide useful information for activists.

News in Brief

On April 9th the Earth Liberation Front blocked the toilet of the Waitrose Supermarket in Stroud, Gloucestershire. The action was carried out because the John Lewis Partnership, who own Waitrose, kill British wildlife on their shooting estate in Hampshire. The JLP give wildlife shit, so the ELF have literally given the shit back to the JLP!

British activists subverted Monsanto's headquarters in St Louis USA. The Monsanto Motto was changed from "Food, Health and Hope" to "Fraud, Stealth and Hype."

Shamrock Farm at Small Dole is closing down after 50 years of torturing monkeys. "Hats off to Save the Shamrock Monkeys!"

Simon Jones was killed at Shoreham Docks in 1998 when forced to do dangerous casual work he wasn't trained for. His family has won a High Court battle forcing the Director of Public Prosecutions to reconsider his dodgy decision not to bring corporate manslaughter charges against Simon's employers. This was a first and will hopefully set a precedent, helping the campaign against casualisation of labour sparked by Simon's death, www.simonjones.org

Members of Voices in the Wilderness have gone on a sanctions-breaking mission to Iraq. They will be carrying medical equipment, medical journals and toys for delivery to children's hospitals. They have not applied for export licences for the items they are taking to Iraq and could be prosecuted for their actions. Voices in the Wilderness UK 01865 243 232

An anti-biotech activist group, the Petaluma Pruners, destroyed grape plants grown by the biotechnology corporation Vinifera in California.

On April Fool's Day a laugh-in took place at the naval base near Faslane Peace Camp, Helensburgh, Scotland. Around 100 people in fancy dress laughed at workers on their way into the base, as well as doing April Fool actions like 'cutting' the fence with plastic tools. The police even joined in, telling campers that the base was moving to America, and asking if the peace camp would follow!

U'wa Protest in London

On 18 April an indigenous leader from Colombia joined a protest in the City of London as part of the U'wa's campaign to save their ancestral lands from oil exploitation. The protest involved a wide range of groups and took place outside the offices of Fidelity Investments. The Fidelity Group is one of the largest shareholders in the US-based Occidental Petroleum Company, which is set to drill for oil right next to U'wa territory. A Colombian court last month ordered Occidental to halt all construction work on its Gibraltar 1 well-site on the grounds that the drilling would violate the "fundamental rights" of the U'wa people including their right to life. The company, after admitting they never consulted with the U'wa, said it will appeal the decision. As the President of the U'wa said, "The injunction speaks of the suspension of the project, not the cancellation. We have taken an important step and are happy because we have advanced in our struggle even though this has come at great sacrifice. We must defend the life of the U'wa..." <http://www.ran.org>

The Modem is Mightier than the Sword

An electronic protest against the Daily Mail and London Evening Standard was a great success, with the Daily Mail letters editor saying they had received over 1,000 e-mails complaining about their coverage of asylum seekers, which has been stirring up racism and fuelling hostility towards refugees. The Guardian reported that "Management at the paper have been rattled by the hostile response from readers over its asylum rantings." The first batch of e-mails got a standard response but as the protest grew both papers began to send snotty replies! They also had to contend with a protest of around 100 people outside their offices on the 13th April with constant chanting ("Daily Mail - Hate Mail, Evening Standard - racist standards"). Future protests are planned. Contact the National Coalition of Anti-Deportation Campaigns on 0121 554 6947 www.ncadc.demon.co.uk/

Mad Pride

Mad Pride is an idea which came out of the 1997 Gay Pride Festival in London. A few survivors of the mental health system said "We could do with a festival like this". And so a collection of individuals got together and slowly started organising themselves to put on events, and eventually develop Mad Pride, which it is hoped will really take off in the year 2000.

The objectives are to promote positive images of mental health, to counteract discrimination and prejudice towards people who have experienced mental distress, to educate the public in mental health issues, to campaign for better mental health provision, to campaign for less oppressive and more enabling legislation and practice guidelines, and to promote economic, social, environmental and cultural integration of users/survivors into mainstream society and their active participation and integration into community life.

In terms of the politics of the Mental Health user movement, there has been a rapid disillusionment with New Labour's Mental Health policies. New Labour's early statement of intent, 'No argument with Compulsory Treatment', has really pissed everybody off. How can you put 'Compulsory' and 'Treatment' together? Shouldn't 'Treatment' involve a degree of choice? What they really mean is 'Forcibly Medicate', even when people are well. Using this fancy style of language, no doubt we will see New Labour renaming prisons as 'Compulsory Hostels'!

To fight against these coercive measures, people need to fight back by having fun, madness, benefit gigs etc. Hence, Mad Pride has been launched.

Nuke Convoy Stopped

Eight protestors were arrested after halting a convoy carrying Trident nuclear warheads going to the nuclear submarine base at Faslane on the Clyde. Two people locked on, while another painted "illegal" on the side of the lorry in 2-foot high letters, and decorated the windscreen. The 8 were later released without charge. The convoy was delayed for up to 3 hours at considerable cost to the Ministry of Defence.

RESISTANCE IS FERTILE

Now that Spring is in the air, the first shoots of a truly global campaign against Genetic Engineering are bursting forth as campaigners around the world unite to prevent the Biotechnology companies from enslaving the earth's resources for their own ends. 'Resistance is Fertile', a Global Week of Action, sowed seeds for a future which doesn't involve the patenting and genetic engineering of the species of the world. Instead campaigners celebrated the diversity of food and life on this planet.

Many different types of event took place, a selection of which are below. More can be found at www.resistanceisfertile.org

Crops a Flop Party

The sun shone at Gaddesden Row, Hemel Hempstead on Sunday, but too late to revive the genetically modified crops which have faded away. More than 100 people from as far away as Devon came to celebrate the failure of farmer Fiddaman's winter oilseed rape to flower. Speeches, jugglers and music kept party goers entertained before everyone embarked on a mass march around the fields. A decision had been made by the local group to not decontaminate the site but to ask the Government to terminate this farcical trial. It was a great day for activists from far and wide to get together and see the site. Another rally will be held in June at the site so watch this space... Community Garden planted opposite Welsh Assembly

After the Assembly's decision to allow GM crops to be planted in Wales, an organic garden was planted opposite the Assembly in support of a GM free Welsh environment. Campaigners planted rare seed varieties, organic vegetables, wild flowers, trees and herbs and then enjoyed an organic picnic next to the garden.

Patent Action

5 campaigners visited the UK Patent Office, Newport, Wales. They made their presence felt inside the building, with giant papier-mache patented vegetables and animals and a large banner. This resulted in a two hour meeting with the Policy Advisor to the Chief Executive and Public Relations advisors.

Greenpeace Cleared

28 Greenpeace activists have been found not guilty of theft after a trial where they admitted destroying a GM crop in Norfolk, last July. It was cut down and sealed in bags to prevent contamination of the environment. The Jury failed to reach a verdict on whether the activists had caused criminal damage to the plants or not, so there may be a retrial.

Worthing Against Terror Bill

A successful protest was held on 11th March, while the same day saw the opening of the 'Terrorist Tearooms', a squat infoshop/cafe in the High Street. This offered free tea coffee and information to the public for nine days non-stop, and had displays, a reading room, videos etc. As a finale, a couple of spectacular stunts were staged, involving some daredevil climbing. The police response to one protester in the rafters plus a few supporters handing out leaflets was to send in the 'riot' cavalry once again. Brave cops, brandishing their batons, chased and arrested a 12-year-old boy (for reasons unknown), along with 2 adults who tried to intervene on his behalf. The climber was also arrested after his amazing 5-hour stint.

If you haven't heard by now, the Prevention of Terrorism Act will attempt to stamp out protests by labelling political activists as terrorists. The Terrorist Tearooms have now been boarded up by landlords West Sussex County Council. We wait to see if the authorities put this publicly owned building to as good use as the activists they want to see in jail. April Pool Parade

Shoppers in Manchester were taken by surprise on Saturday 1st April when several hundred wannabe terrorists, disguised in police uniforms and riot gear, attempted to intimidate and coerce a group of fluffy protestors into, well, not protesting.

The April Fool Parade was organised to make the point that the Terrorism Bill is so extreme and ridiculous that it is a joke - only not a particularly amusing one. About 400 people gathered armed with some decidedly suspicious leaflets, a hugely subversive 'Stop the Terrorism Bill, Terror Bill = Terror State' banner, pig masks, cameras, musical instruments, and pantomime police helmets. Just to help make the point, a large number of humourless jokers - sorry, law enforcement officers also turned up, along with intelligence gatherers (sic) and the usual hardware, including helicopter.

The plan was to parade around the city for an hour or so, stopping off at the Freemason's and then the Town Hall for a chat over tea and buncakes about government legislation and the doings of the hidden state. Nothing too antagonistic, just a few pranks and a bit of mockery.

However, police jokers penned in the crowd, cordoned off the shopping area, set up road blocks, and traffic ground to a halt on Cross Street and the surrounding area... for hours! A pedal powered sound system turned up and the t-party began to warm up.

Each time a route to leave the street looked clear a bunch of jokers formed a blockading line, and others began to pen in the crowd from all sides. Tactics of coercion and intimidation started to be deployed.

Three people were nicked, with no pretence even of observing arresting procedure. Sensing that the angry young men were running short of patience, the parade of fool's finally and light heartedly moved along, then spotted a gap in the official lines and everybody dispersed simultaneously to the peace gardens.

The crowd then headed for an old haunt, Oxford Road, but the police were now ahead of the game, and soon the Parade was penned in once more. So they partied for another hour or so, and finally left, safe and unharmed, dignity intact, no major battle kicking off, with 5-6,000 leaflets on the Terrorism Bill passed out to an unaware public, and a day to remember.

Medical Genetics

The Scary Bit

When they start talking about “quality” then it’s time to get worried. For instance, try Dr Bob Edwards, pioneer of IVF treatment (‘test-tube babies’) in Britain:

Soon it will be a sin for parents to have a child which carries the heavy burden of genetic disease. We are entering a world where we have to consider the quality of our children.

OK, so most geneticists aren’t as blatant as Edwards. They have worked out that human genetics has a bad ‘history’. The clever ones know that anything with “genetics” in its name is suspicious, thanks to the abuse of science, the public and the environment by the GM food companies.

So they claim that the new genetics is “good science” and has nothing in common with the “bad genetics” of Nazi Germany. They hide behind “pure” science and research: They reassure us that “designer babies” and screening for the “gay gene” are out of the question. But that’s not enough to convince a sceptical public.

The Comfortable Bit

So they have another, magic weapon. It’s a weapon that most environmentalists haven’t had to deal with. Disabled rights campaigners know the game — they’ve had it thrown at them for decades. The weapon is the N.H.S., or more generally health care. It’s magic, because it transforms a dirty science (“genetics” = “Frankenstein foods”) into something good, kind and caring (“helping sick people”). It even makes it worth throwing millions of pounds of public money at (“help us find a cure for cancer”).

The Really Scary Bit

But still they talk about the “normal” genome, point to “faulty” genes, and offer “solutions” based on reducing diversity and eliminating disabled people. Sure, people born with impairments don’t have an easy life: inaccessible public transport, fewer facilities, job discrimination, social prejudice. Those are all problems we can do something about. The only “problem” identified by medical genetics is the disabled people themselves.

The Un-Comfortable Bit

So how to respond to the “we’re just helping parents have healthy babies” facade. There are about four possible responses:

- 1) We can hide behind fundamentalism. It’s much easier to be against pre-natal screening if you’re against all abortion per se. It’s a simplistic response. It’s also abhorrent to most of us.
- 2) We can run away from confronting the geneticists. GM foods are so much easier to campaign against. Trouble is, we’ll be at the bottom of the eugenics slippery slope before we know it.
- 3) We can try to respond on their own terms. We can complain about some of the more overtly eugenic scientists, but avoid challenging the underlying assumptions. We’ll probably lose (but if you want to give it a go, try the ‘Frequently Asked Questions’ below).
- 4) Or we can try to challenge their assumptions about public health care, parental choice, normality.... And we’ve got a secret weapon too: the alternatives. Funding limitations mean that they are, and will be, in direct opposition with the new genetics. (See ‘Alternatives’ box.)

Frequently Asked Questions

Aren't you just anti-science?

We're against bad science, that oversimplifies genetics and ignores other factors in disease. Science should not be treated like a God, untouchable and exempt from ethical debate.

Aren't you scare-mongering?

New genetics developments encourage people to think about "improving" desirable characteristics and avoiding "abnormalities." As the technology improves, the dangers of this leading to eugenics increase.

What harm does gene therapy do anyone?

Gene therapy (ie curing a living person by altering or treating their genes) does not work. It never has. This is about screening and eliminating, not curing.

Don't you want to help sick people?

Sickness is caused by many factors, but especially social and environmental degradation. Pouring money into genetics diverts resources and attention from better cures, and creates false expectations.

Are you against parental choice?

It should be an informed choice, made against the background of a society that will care for those with impairments and offer the correct support to parents. Parents want healthy babies: most pre-natal screening offers anxieties, false hopes (it's not exact or complete) and, if a "problem" is diagnosed, directive counselling.

Alternatives:

Health issues are complex and multifactorial. We would improve public health far more successfully by concentrating on the basics:

- ▷ good quality housing, increased welfare benefits, better nutrition
- ▷ less pollution, cleaner air, healthier cities
- ▷ more active lifestyles, less road transport
- ▷ reducing social and health inequalities

And as treatments for disabilities?

- Non-western and holistic medicines and therapies have delivered symptomatic relief to many, despite lack of funding.
- We should be educating society (ourselves) to accept and integrate disabled people, not trying to eliminate them.
- Most impairments are not related to genetic diseases. All the new genetics offers is increased social stigma and diversion of money (and skills).

Nipping it in the bud

And if we don't challenge the new medical genetics, and its hold on the public purse (and on university science courses), it's not long before the promise of 'therapy' will become the reality of 'elimination' — before parental 'choice' demands screening for the criminal/stupid/ugly/gay/misfit/free-thinking gene. Let's nip this one in the bud — because that's exactly what they plan to do with anyone that society happens to be unable or unwilling to cope with.

EF! CONTACTS MAY 2000

Action Groups are local EF! contacts. Some of them are active groups, some of them are aspiring towards this but need more people to get in touch. Some are just people who will know what is going on direct action wise in their area. The Propaganda section lists non- EF! publications which we think are worth reading. International Contacts are entry points into that country's own network of groups. Other Contacts are ones whose aims and principles we agree with fully or in part, or groups that we think may be of use or interest to people. Bastille Day

On 14th July 1789, the people of Paris stormed the Bastille.

On July 14th 2000 diverse and independent groups will unite, taking action, against prisons and the companies behind them.

Now is an important time, private companies are building and running prisons for profit, allowing more prisons to be built and creating a huge industry that protects the powerful and the rich.

Security Companies like Group4, Wakenhut and Correction Corporation of America, construction firms such as Kvaerner and Carrilion and even hotel corporations like Sodexo are fighting for contracts to build and run prisons. Hundreds of others from Microsoft to The Ecologist magazine are queuing up to exploit cheap prison workers.

Prison populations are growing, but so is our resistance. There are groups fighting on a whole range of prison, policing and asylum issues. Here is an opportunity to bring our struggles together. Around Bastille Day "CAGE" will be organising an occupation of a space related to the prison industry. They aim to transform it into a place where resistance can grow and groups of people can meet, discuss ideas, plot and scheme and promote their campaigns. They also aim to build on Bastille Day to create a broad network of groups resisting the prison industry.

CAGE is a network set up to support and create resistance to prisons. They organise without leaders to take direct action against prison building, e-mail: prison@narchy.fsnet.co.uk Bastille Day discussion list: bastilleday@narchy.fsnet.co.uk post: CAGE c/o PO Box 68, Oxford, OX3 1BH, England tel: 07931 401 962 web:

Blackout Campsfield

On Saturday 25th March, people took down the main electric supply cables at Campsfield Detention Centre, Kidlington near Oxford. The aim was to cause major inconvenience to the running of the private detention centre. Safety precautions were taken because of the very high voltage involved and no injuries resulted. Unfortunately the cables refused to snap, despite the pole holding them up being destroyed. The lights didn't go out during the action, but the electricity supply will have to be shut off to enable the thousand's of pounds of damage to be repaired.

Campsfield House holds around 200 men, most of whom are political refugees. It is run for profit, as a high security prison, by Group 4, on behalf of the Immigration Service. People are being held without charge, without time limit, without proper reasons given and without decent access to legal representation. An Amnesty International report says that these are breaches of internationally recognised human rights.

Wiser Monkeys in Sheffield

A new squat community centre, Wiser Monkeys, has opened in Sheffield. The squat is part of the run up to the Sheffield mayday celebrations. The opening party was a rip roaring success, and the plan is to be open for at least three weeks, with the Sheffield mayday festivities happening at the end of the second week. For those visiting the address is 140 & 148 Devonshire Street, Sheffield. jimthackery@yahoo.co.uk or phone the squat on 0114 281 2814

Close Down Huntingdon Life Sciences

On World Day for Lab Animals (22 April around 2000 people, dressed in black from head to foot and wearing skull masks, went to Huntingdon Life Sciences vivisection labs in Cambridgeshire.

After drumming, music and emotional speeches, some people cut through the fence around the lab with bolt croppers, and around 150 people surged inside. A second fence of razor wire was crushed to the ground, and a makeshift bridge over a large ditch was constructed using an old gate.

Once inside the grounds, some people got in with the animals, while others managed to get into the labs where workers were shaken up by coming face to face with demonstrators. Two people scaled the roof of the building.

Police seemed to be fairly laid-back, and when they realised what was happening they just pushed people back out of the hole they had come through, with few arrests.

The crowd then blocked the A1, bringing traffic to a standstill, and also blocked the A14 roundabout. At a BP petrol station 7 windows of a McDonalds were smashed, with staff later saying they were unable to identify who did it because of the masks.

Later on, the house of two Huntingdon workers, who have said publicly that they're proud of what they do for a living, was visited by a group of about 20 people.

Stop the Rubbish Rat

Residents of Gartocher Terrace in Glasgow are running a direct action campaign to stop William 'Rubbish Rat' Combe moving his waste disposal business into the quiet street. Residents, including children, and supporters staged a sit in at freemason Combe's chief allies HQ - the local police station. More recently, Combe's skip lorries were stopped from entering the street for 2 days by an ingenious blockade which included a pallet loaded with bricks suspended above the road, and a community caravan which has been bought by the residents.

At the end of March, the 'Rubbish - Rat' brought a skip lorry smelling like the sewers down the street.

A resident went out to video as Glasgow City Council had said this was the only evidence they'd accept. Police grabbed and confiscated the camera, arrested the resident for 'taking unwanted photographs,' and then held him for 24 hours, escorting the skip through.

Later that day, 7 children in the street contracted gastroenteritis and one was hospitalised. On April 6th, two supporters from Faslane Peace Camp were arrested after one tried to defend himself from being hit by Combe. Local police have proved again to be the best police money can buy. Since this incident, Combe has brought no more full skips through, but may do so at any time. Help is needed and there is plenty to do, from blockading, to demos, to researching links between Combe and the council, Tel: 07979 836 223.
